Automotive Amigo Penguin Group
This book clearly highlights some of the unknown information that potential car buyers should have before stepping foot into a dealership. The book also serves as a good outline of what a person can expect when the time comes to purchase a vehicle. This book aims to educate the buyer to be able to negotiate an automobile transaction with confidence. It will help to save you time at the dealership and hundreds or thousands of dollars on your future automotive purchases. If you are going to a dealership that negotiates the selling price and does not have fixed or set the pricing on all the vehicles, they will follow the same basic process. This book will guide you through the sales and finance process, which will not only save you money but time spent at the dealership.

Valuable

Advice For Potential Car Buyers
The used car industry, as with any industry has certain business practices that are used throughout the industry. A key to a successful examination of a used car dealer is an understanding of these basic common practices. Certain jargon is widely used in the industry. The terms defined in Exhibit 1-1 are the most commonly found terms. However, even these terms may vary from region to region. Nevertheless, the list may be useful in understanding how the industry operates. Become familiar with these terms as many of the terms listed here are used throughout the Audit Technique Guide. The used car industry is comprised of two major segments. The first segment is made up of the new car dealers who accept trade-ins on the sale of new automobiles; or purchase used cars from customers, used car dealers, or wholesale auto auctions. The new car dealers then sell the used cars either to wholesalers, directly to used car dealers, through auctions, or to other miscellaneous customers. PPC's Guide to Dealerships Contains Technical Guidance and Practice Aids for the Unique

Success is just a turn of the page away. New Vehicle Dealership In preplanning an examination of an automobile dealership, a review of the return, as is customary, could pose interesting questions to begin the audit. An agent knows there are a variety of internal research tools with which to start. By securing information from the Integrated Data Retrieval System (IDRS), an agent may be able to perform a preliminary comparative analysis of the income and deduction items as well as the balance sheet which would provide initial information useful to the agent. Many dealerships have begun conducting business transactions utilizing e-commerce, or the Internet. Using a search engine to look at a dealership's website may provide some background information on a specific dealership. The return may be a consolidation of two or more entities created for the benefit of the automobile dealer. The separate entities provide the dealership the ability to clarify operations and distinguish activities. If the return is a large consolidated operation, flow-through schedules or other accompanying statements are disclosed on the return identifying these activities. New automobile dealerships maintain good internal controls and prepare complete books and records. Dealerships as franchisees, properly book sales activities to conform to the financial statement requirements imposed in the form of the manufacturers statements by the franchiser, the factory. Once the income is booked, some dealerships may incorrectly treat or classify them for tax purposes. This may occur through shifting of business activities to related entities. An entity chart is helpful in visualizing the organizational structure. It is important that all related returns are gathered. One entity may own the land where the dealership operations are and rent is paid to the shareholder. Another entity may be an insurance company formed to facilitate the paper flow of extended service contract sales or a management company is formed to receive management fees. All three are related entities and related party transactions should be examined. An understanding of each entity's activities, business purpose and tax implications would be required.
