 How Is It Love? is Simran's first professionally published book which explores the themes of contemporary love stories set in Indian states and Utah to the strained family ties of the modern era. The five short stories raise the issues of how family background impacts the lives of people in the long run which makes them vulnerable to violence, abuse and insecurities. Hidden in the layers of love and romance, the focus is on how love beyond gender, age and caste, self-love, and firm determination become the indispensable elements of healing others and oneself. Besides, another theme highlighted, stemming from mental health issues, is self-harm by a male character to show that men suffer too. The last story in the collection is not the representation of the usual terrorist activities that people come across in society, but it shows how some events make a teenager turn into a body thirsty for blood and vengeance.

He it is Who has revealed to you the Alaykal-Kitaab. In it are Fundamental Verses. They are the Substance of the Kitaab; others are Signs. But those in whose hearts are doubts, pursue forsooth (related to), that which is Sign seeking (to cause) dissension by seeking to explain it. None knows its explanation except Allah. And those who are of sound instruction say: We believe therein, the whole is from our Rab; but only men of understanding really notice. Life is a mission wherein a lot of goals must be met to transcend various milestones. Happiness is an emotion as you journey through the same. It is a byproduct of your labor and toil. Absolute happiness is attained when you are cloaked in the mantle of righteousness, when your integrity is unquestionable and judgement about people is true and valid. Happiness needs to be earned and it is not for free.
